Interest rates are subject to change in accordance with the procedure set forth in § 12 of the Terms and Conditions.

Interest on Cash Transactions and Non-Cash Transactions executed with a Credit Card is calculated using the following formula: the interest rate provided in the table is divided by 365/366 days (depending on the actual number of calendar days in the year). Based on the daily rate thus calculated, the interest is calculated for each calendar day in which the Customer is using the credit on the Card.

If the Card type is changed, the interest rate applied to transactions made before the date of such a change is the interest rate applicable on the Transaction date to the given Card type used to execute the Transaction.

Interest on the 'Comfort' Installment Payment Plan is calculated using the following formula: for the first installment and installment calculated in the case of early repayment, the interest rate provided in the table is divided by 360 days and, based on the daily rate thus calculated, the interest is calculated for each calendar day in which the Customer is using the Plan.

For other installments, the interest rate provided in the table is divided by 360 days and calculated for 30 days in a month (irrespective of the actual number of days in the given month).
